Part II. Description of Curriculum Change

1. Catalog Description

The Department of Spanish offers a varied curriculum designed to provide not only basic language instruction in Spanish, but also the more advanced competencies needed by language specialists and students hoping to take advantage of an international study experience. For the undergraduate Spanish major, the department has three degree programs: the B.S. in Education, the B.A. degree in Spanish, and the B.A. in Spanish for Global Communication.

Free Electives: 2

Total Degree Requirements 120

(1) Students in the B.A. Spanish for International Trade major must successfully complete a program of language study in a Spanish-speaking country. This program must, as a minimum, last four weeks and carry 3 or more credits extending beyond the intermediate level. Students may fulfill this requirement by participating in any of IUP's study abroad programs in Spain, Mexico or Costa Rica or by transferring credits from another institution. Students who do not participate in an IUP study abroad program should obtain prior approval from the department. Based on demonstration of adequate oral proficiency and significant cross-cultural experience, students may be exempted from this requirement with the approval of the advisor.

(2) SPAN 220 also fulfills the requirement.

2. Summary of Changes

The following table compares the old program and the proposed revised program (bold areas denote program differences):

Old Program	New Program
Bachelor of Arts-Spanish for International Trade	Bachelor of Arts-Spanish for International Trade
Liberal Studies: As outlined in Liberal Studies 52	Liberal Studies: As outlined in Liberal Studies 52

The B.A. in Spanish for International Trade is a focused Spanish major that incorporates both specialized courses in Spanish and the core sequence of the Eberly College of Business program. At some point that college changed their core to include MGMT 310 Principles of Management instead of MGMT 311 Human Behavior in Organizations. We were not informed of that change,
